Resolved Temporary Loss of Communication with the Keypad

Issue: In larger installations of approximately 10+ modules and/or with long cable runs:

Experiencing random and temporary communication fail on the keypad

- The keypad becomes unresponsive temporarily
- The system is slow to respond to keypad input

This firmware upgrade is not mandatory and is required in the case a system meets the criteria's mentioned above.

Improvements: New LCD Display

A new LCD display will be available during October 2015 on the K641+ keypad. The characters are now white on a blue background making the display easier to read. Version v1.45 is compatible with both the current and new LCD displays.
